DETAILED ACTION

This Office action is in response to the amendment filed December 2, 2008 in which claims 12-14 were added.

The rejection of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Lipper is withdrawn in view of Applicant's arguments.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 9-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Chen (US 5,199,413).

Chen teaches a mobile spirit stove comprising an alcohol fuel container to hold alcohol fuel ( elongate bottom, front and back walls; a left-side wall; a right side wall), a perforated rectangular shaped cover having straight parallel regular and equally curved ridges and hollows and having holes over the ridges through which alcohol fuel gas (flammable vapors) flows out of the container for making fires and holes over the hollows through which outside air is induced into the alcohol fuel container for circulation (see abstract and Figs 1 and 2). Chen teaches that a rectangular cover is inserted over the perforated cover and from the drawings it appears that the cover contains an elongate vapor exit aperture.

Chen teaches the limitations of the claims other than the following differences: (i) the fuel is an alcoholic gel; and (ii) the flame is of a rectangular pattern.

With respect to (i), Chen teaches that the fuel is an alcohol with glass fibers. Since he does not specifically teach the size of the fibers, it would be reasonable to expect that the combination of the fibers and the alcohol form a gel, absent evidence to the contrary.

With respect to (ii), Chen teaches that the a rectangular cover is placed over the perforated rectangular surface. Therefore, it would appear that the flame would take on a rectangular form, absent evidence to the contrary.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 12-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The examiner has reviewed page 14 for the subject matter set forth in claims 12-14 and do not find support for the claimed limitations. Applicant should point out where on page 14 is the support for these claims. Also, since the drawings are not drawn to scale they cannot be relied upon to provide the claimed limitations regarding the area of the restrictor and the exit aperture.
